I have a dream...
Personal Narrative: Writing about your dream for the world.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. is remembered for his inspiring speeches to help promote civil rights. His most famous speech began, “I have a dream…” King spoke of his dream of a world where people were judged by their character instead of by their race. What is your dream? Write a personal narrative that tells about your dream for the world. What would you change, and why?

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________________________