

Name: _____

Combining Sentences Using Plural Possessive Nouns

Read each pair of sentences, then combine them to write one sentence using a plural possessive noun.

Example: The teacher returned the essays. The essays belonged to the students.

The teacher returned the students' essays.

1. The instructor packed away the costumes. The costumes belonged to the dancers.

_____

2. The tutors checked the homework. The homework belonged to the children.

_____

3. We saw the tiny eggs in the nest. The nest belonged to the birds.

_____

4. The complaints angered the teachers. The complaints were made by the parents.

_____

5. I put away the art supplies. The art supplies belonged to the students.

_____

6. The uniforms are red, white, and blue. The uniforms belong to the cheerleaders.

_____

7. The teacher returned the books to the library. The books belonged to the children.

_____

8. Barack Obama was the choice for president. The choice was made by the people.

_____

Name: _____

KEY

Combining Sentences Using Plural Possessive Nouns

Read each pair of sentences, then combine them to write one sentence using a plural possessive noun.

Example: The teacher returned the essays. The essays belonged to the students.

The teacher returned the students' essays.

1. The instructor packed away the costumes. The costumes belonged to the dancers.

The instructor packed away the dancers' costumes.

2. The tutors checked the homework. The homework belonged to the children.

The tutors checked the children's homework.

3. We saw the tiny eggs in the nest. The nest belonged to the birds.

We saw the tiny eggs in the birds' nest.

4. The complaints angered the teachers. The complaints were made by the parents.

The parents' complaints angered the teachers.

5. I put away the art supplies. The art supplies belonged to the students.

I put away the students' art supplies.

6. The uniforms are red, white, and blue. The uniforms belong to the cheerleaders.

The cheerleaders' uniforms are red, white, and blue.

7. The teacher returned the books to the library. The books belonged to the children.

The teacher returned the children's books to the library.

8. Barack Obama was the choice for president. The choice was made by the people.

Barack Obama was the people's choice for president.