

Circle It! Compound Predicates

Circle the number of the sentences that have a compound predicate.

1. The puppy howled and cried all night.
2. Diana bought a flower at the store and gave it to her teacher.
3. We drove to New York where my grandmother lives.
4. They sat on the beach but couldn't seem to relax.
5. The man liked the house, but the woman thought it ugly.
6. Alex and Zena worked hard and earned a good grade.
7. On the weekends, they like sleeping late and reading books.
8. I will watch the movie and will give you my opinion.
9. No one could blame them for giving up and going home.
10. She patted her horse and brushed its mane.

Circle It! Compound Predicates

Circle the number of the sentences that have a compound predicate.

1. The puppy howled and cried all night.
2. Diana bought a flower at the store and gave it to her teacher.
3. We drove to New York where my grandmother lives.
4. They sat on the beach but couldn't seem to relax.
5. The man liked the house, but the woman thought it ugly.
6. Alex and Zena worked hard and earned a good grade.
7. On the weekends, they like sleeping late and reading books.
8. I will watch the movie and will give you my opinion.
9. No one could blame them for giving up and going home.
10. She patted her horse and brushed its mane.